Unless otherwise stated all data referred to are seasonally adjusted and depict the underlying trend. The X12 ARIMA monthly seasonal adjustments include trading days and leap years. Unadjusted data are located in tables 3A to 3D. There is a step change in the data between 2010 and 2011 following a change in the reporting population. Average transaction values are based on three-month rolling averages, while growth rates are based on twelve-month rolling periods.

* As there are insufficient online data series collected to apply X12 ARIMA seasonal adjustment, the underlying trend is determined using linear regression. This allows an estimation of the likely scale of seasonal impacts to be made until there are sufficient data (3 years) to use a recognised method of seasonal adjustment.

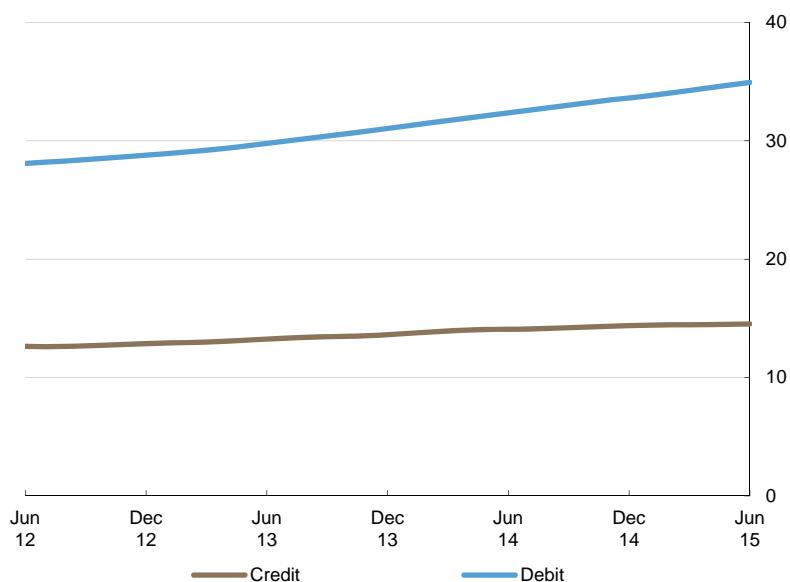

Introduction

Payment card spending in June amounted to £50.7 billion, up £123 million on May. Spending via the internet rose by 0.9% to £11.2 billion, representing 22.0% of total card spending, up from 21.0% a year ago. The number of purchases also grew, reaching a record monthly total of 1.1 billion, up by 0.7% on May. The number of online purchases increased by 1.5% on May to reach 126 million, accounting for 11.5% of total purchases, up from 10.5% a year ago.

During the second quarter of the year consumers made 87 million more purchases and spent £2.5 billion above the level recorded in the first quarter. The increase in payment card expenditure comes after growth of 0.7% in GDP¹ in the second quarter, up from 0.4% in the first quarter. Other factors driving the growth in card spending include changes in seasonal shopping habits in sectors such as travel and entertainment, as well as a strong uptick in consumer confidence².

Annual growth rates

The pace of growth in card spending has continuously decelerated since peaking at 8.1% in April 2014. In June card spending grew at an annual rate of 6.9%, slightly down from 7.0% in May. The deceleration in the growth in card spending may be driven in part by the decline in the rate of inflation. Another factor might be the recent slowdown in the growth of the number of cards in issue, indicating that debit cards may be close to saturation, while credit cards exhibited marginal growth.

The annual consumer price inflation slowed down to 0% in the year to June 2015³, after a slight uptick of 0.1% in May, continuing the trend in the preceding four months when inflation hovered around 0%. The largest downward effect on the price index came from the food and clothing categories, mainly driven by the summer sales⁴.

Within the sectors, the annual growth in the service sector continued to exceed that in retail sales with registered growth rates of 11.1% and 2.8% respectively. The strongest annual growth of 14.7% was registered in the entertainment sub-sector, while the largest decline in spending occurred on automotive fuels, which declined by 6.4%.

Average transaction values

In the first half of 2015 higher growth rates in volumes relative to values continued the trend evident since 2011, which has resulted in a sustained fall in the average transaction value (ATV) on all payment cards. The ATV fell by 23p to £46.51, and compares to £47.86 a year ago. This persistent decline is likely a reflection of the ongoing migration of low value cash payments to cards, enhanced by the growth in contactless spending, in particular, across the TfL network⁵. Low inflation and intense price competition in the retail market are other factors putting downward pressure on the ATV.

The ATV for debit cards declined by 20p to £43.27, whilst the ATV for credit cards fell by 35p to £57.11. Within the sectors, the ATV in retail sales declined slightly by 6p to £32.43, while the ATV for services fell by 80p to £75.64. The lowest ATV of £22.34 was registered in the entertainment sub-sector, which compares to the highest ATV of £356.17 in financial services. Meanwhile, the ATV of online card payments amounted to £86.21 – more than double the ATV for face-to-face purchases of £40.95. However, the downward trend is also evident as the online ATV has decreased by £8.32 since June 2014.

Spending by sector – retail sales and services

The number of transactions within the retail sector increased by 4.2 million to 737 million, with the corresponding spend rising by £106 million to £23.9 billion. The majority of the increase in spending came from the food & drink and household sub-sectors, where spending amounted to £9.1 billion and £3.8 billion respectively. The strengthening housing market was likely the main driver of sustained growth in the household sub-sector, evident since the summer of 2013. Spending in the clothing sub-sector continued to grow strongly reaching £2.3 billion, mainly driven by large increases in expenditure at family clothing and shoe shops – a reflection of the summer sales.

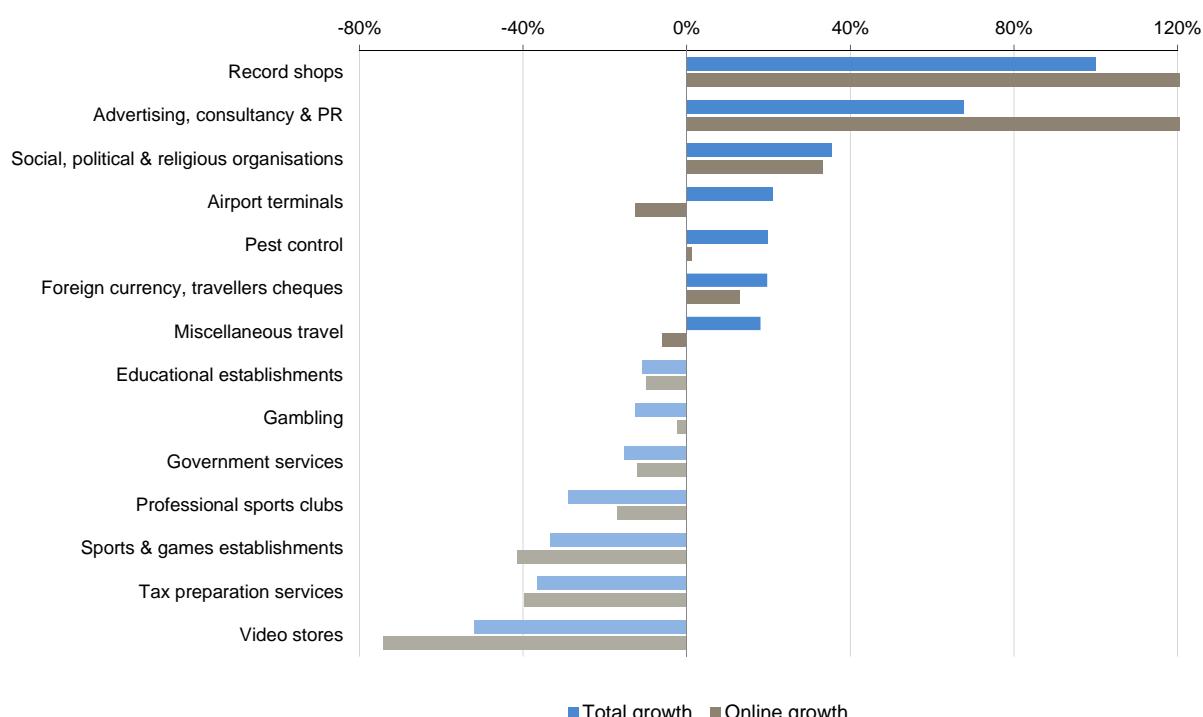

Meanwhile, the number of transactions in the services sector grew by 3.5 million to 358 million, corresponding to a rise in spending of £17 million to £26.8 billion. A major contributor of growth was the financial sub-sector, which recorded an increase of £32 million to £5.9 billion, boosted by a notable rise in spending for insurance services and tax payments. The travel category was also a strong contributor to growth after increasing by £15 million to £3.9 billion, marking the beginning of the summer travel season. Other services sub-sector was the only category to record a decline in month-on-month spending, mainly driven by decreased spending on government services and educational establishments.

Spending by merchant categories (not seasonally adjusted)

Along with growth in spending at supermarkets, household and clothing stores there were significant increases in card spending at a number of other merchants during June. The largest increase in spending was evident at record shops, in particular, via online sales. Travel related merchants like foreign currency and travellers cheques distributors as well as miscellaneous travel services and airport terminals recorded a substantial rise in spending. Growth in spending on leisure and travel coincided with the start of the summer holidays. Meanwhile, spending at video stores, tax preparation services and sports establishments registered the largest decreases between May and June.

Payment card spending online (not seasonally adjusted)

Consumer behaviour tends to differ considerably when spending via the online channel or in-store. For example, the food & drink sub-sector accounted for 35% of all card purchases made in-store in June, while just 8% of online purchases were made in this category. In contrast, the entertainment category accounted for just 4% of all in-store purchases, while in the digital space 27% of purchases were made on entertainment.

E-commerce continued to dominate within the services sector where 32% of card spending was made via the internet, while just 11% of retail spending was online. The highest e-commerce traffic was within financial services, where 45% of spending was completed via the internet, followed by other services with 35%. Within the merchant categories, the proportion of online spending was the highest on catalogues (90%), timeshares (86%) and security brokers & dealers (70%). The lowest share was recorded in the vehicle sales & services sub-sector, where just 2.7% of spending were made online, while virtually all spending on automotive fuels occurred in the face-to-face environment. Similarly, consumers typically shop in-store at such merchants as laundry & cleaning services, pubs and veterinary services, where online spending accounts for just 0.8%, 1% and 1.5% respectively.

Payment card spending within national retail sales

Retail sales form a significant part of household spending in the UK and data from merchants show increasing use of payment cards over many years. There was an increase in the percentage share of retail sales (including automotive fuels)⁸ accounted for by payment cards in June. This measure increased to 75.7%, up 0.4 percentage points on May, with debit and credit card splits of 51.9% and 23.8% respectively. This trend was also reflected in other sub-sectors such as food & drink and automotive fuels. The share of spending within food & drink accounted for by cards rose slightly to 71.6% in June, while nearly all expenditure on automotive fuels was accounted for by payment cards at 89.3%.
